INTRODUCTION.

§ 1. In the following extract from the Stationers' Register (Arber's Transcript III., 378) occurs the first mention of the present play :

20 maij [1608].

Edward Blount. Entred for his copie vnder thandes of Sir George Buck knight and Master Warden Seton A booke called The booke of Pericles prince of Tyre. vj^d

It was in 1608 also that the book by George Wilkins was publisht, entitled 'The Painfull Aduentures of Pericles prince of Tyre. Being the true History of the Play of Pericles, as it was lately presented by the worthy and ancient poet Iohn Gower. At London Printed by T. P.[avier?], for Nat: Butter.'¹ In 'the Argument of the whole Historie,' with which the book begins, the Reader is entreated 'to receiue this Historie in the same maner as it was vnder the habite of ancient Gower the famous English Poet, by the Kings Maiesties Players excellently presented.' It was the success of the play, probably, which led Henry Gosson to bring out in 1609 his pirated version of the late and much admired play called Pericles, which with the reprint of the same year is now reproduced.

¹ The 1st and 2nd Quartos, published in 1608, of King Lear 'As it was played before the Kings Maiestie at Whitehall . . . By his Maiesties seruants playing vsually at the Gloabe on the Bancke-side,' were printed for Nathaniel Butter.

The anonymous verses entitled Pimlyco or Runne Red-Cap, published in 1609, speak thus of *Pericles*¹:—

Amazde I stood, to see a Crowd
Of Civill Throats stretchd out so loud ;
(As at a New-play) all the Roomes
Did swarme with Gentiles mix'd with Groomes,
So that I truly thought all These
Came to see Shore or Pericles.

Not knowing what play is denoted by the name Shore, we cannot tell whether it is or is not meant to be described as a 'New-play'; though that description would suit Pericles.

The year of its production was 1607 or 1608. (Fleay, ²it is true, sees a palpable imitation of Act III. sc. ii. of Pericles (the bringing to life of Thaisa) in a scene of a conjuration and sham restoration in The Puritan which (as he shews) was acted in 1606. The likeness, however, seems no more than may fairly be called accidental.)

For some reason Blount never issued 'The book of Pericles prince of Tyre,' which was 'entred for his copie' 20th May, 1608. It is curious that on the same day, and immediately following the entry of Pericles, comes the entry, also to Blount, of Anthony and Cleopatra, which he never issued separately, for it is entered over again to Blount and Jaggard in the list for the forthcoming Folio of 1623 of 'so many of the said copies as are not formerly entered to other men,' i.e., among the fifteen plays which had not before appeared in print. But having found these two entries of Blount's in company in 1608, we are not surprised to read on Gosson's title-page that the play of Pericles is 'by William Shakespeare.' That Shakspeare had at least a share in its composition is generally admitted. Pericles is absent from the 1st and 2nd Folios, but it had been imputed to Shakspeare before its appearance in the 3rd Folio, in 1664, by S. Sheppard in The Times displayed in Six Sestiyads, 1646—as well as by Jo: Tatham, who says in his commendatory lines prefixt to R. Brome's Joviall Crew, 1652—

There is a Faction (Friend) in Town, that cries,
Down with the Dagon-Poet, Johnson dies.

Beaumont and Fletcher (they say) perhaps, might

But Shakespeare the Plebean Driller, was Founder'd in 's Pericles, and must not pass.
And so, at all men flie, that have but been Thought worthy of applause.

Dryden, in 1672, speaking of the early plays as notable for 'some ridiculous, incoherent story, which in one play many times took up the business of an age,' supposes he 'need not name Pericles, Prince of Tyre, nor the Historical Plays of Shakespear.'

The play seems to have been popular. Robert Tailor, in The Hogge bath lost his Pearl, 1614, said

'if it prove so happy as to please,
Weele say 'tis fortunate like Pericles.'

Richard Brathwaite's mention of 'Valiant Boults' in his Strappado for the Diuell, 1615, seems to shew that one of the characters was well enough known. Ben Jonson in his Ode 'Come leave the lothed stage,' 1629-30, growls about 'some mouldy tale like Pericles.' When Sir Henry Herbert, Master of the Revels, received of the players, 10 June, 1631, 'for a gratuity for ther liberty gaind unto them of playinge, upon the cessation of the plague . . . 3*l.* 10*s.* 0*d.*—This was taken upon Pericles at the Globe.'¹ Besides a 2nd quarto in 1609, editions of Pericles appeared in 1611, 1619, 1630 and 1635;—a larger number than were issued of any Shakspearean play except one or two Histories. It was one of the six Shakspearean plays acted by Sir Wm. Davenant's company between 1660 and 1671,¹ and Downes tells us twice in Roscius Anglicanus (says Collier) that Pericles was a favourite part with Betterton.

§ 2. In the older forms of the story, the prince of Tyre is called Apollonius. The earliest extant version, in Latin, is considered to have been made from a Greek original about the VIth century. An allusion in the Gesta abbatum Fontanellensium shews Historia Apollonii regis Tyri to have been among the books given to the monastery about A.D. 747. The oldest MS. now known is of the Xth century, and the Latin story was first printed about 1470, and again by Marc:Welser in 1595. There are fragments of an 11th century West Saxon version, in a Corpus MS. printed by Thorpe.

Godfrey of Viterbo has the story in his 12th century Panttheon sive memoriae saeculorum (see Bk. II., cols. 282-292); it is said to be given also by Vincentius Bellovacensis in his Speculum historiale. The Historia Apollonii is pretty closely reproduced in chapter 153 of the Gesta Romanorum, i.e., first among the chapters added—about 1488—to the 152 printed in the earlier editions. It is not found in the Anglo-Latin recension, and accordingly is not in the oldest English translation of the Gesta. The story is found in French in 13th century MSS. at Paris and in the British Museum; and it is also told in a Spanish poem of the same period, as well as in German in an expanded shape in verse by H. von Neustadt.²

Gower tells the tale in Confessio Amantis, bk. viii., ls. 281-2018, and says he found it in 'a cronique in daies gon, The which is

² Selections from Neustadt's poem were published in 1875 at Vienna; J. Strobl, editor. But a version may have existed in French or German before; for in the 12th century Lamprecht speaks of the adventures of Apollonius in his German poem of Alexander, which was imitated from the old French poem of Alberic de Besançon, now extant only in a fragment.

cleped Panteon'—presumably of Godfrey of Viterbo. The Pantheon is referred to also in verses at the conclusion of the Old German version printed at Augsburg, 1471, but in both these cases the assertion is only limitedly true. In Douce MS. 216 is a fragment of 140 lines of a 15th century English version; another is among the Phillipps MSS., and was printed in Halliwell's 'New Boke about Shakespeare' in 1850.

Louys Garbin printed la cronicque et hystoire d'Appolin roy de thir at Geneva in 1482, and probably it was this, put into English by Copland, which Wynkyn de Worde publisht in 1510;—not the worst, says Warton, among the many romances which appeared in England before 1540. The romance had been printed in Old German and in Swedish in 1471; in Dutch in 1493.

In 1576, William Howe entered on the Stationers' Register (B., lf. 134; Arber's Transcript II., 301) the historie of the strange aduentures of prince Apollonius Lucina his wife and Tharsa his daughter, 'sett foorth in print,' the entry says, 'with this title The patterne of paynfull aduentures.' The Painful Pilgrimage is one among the names in the record of plays acted at court in 1567-8,¹ and from the similarity of title it has been conjectured that the subject of play and story was the same. The proprietorship of the novel past apparently to Valentine Simmes, who probably in the last decade of the 16th century produced the earliest extant edition of the book, 'gathered into English,' the title-page asserts, 'by Laurence Twine, gentleman.' Another edition appeared in 1607. With a few additions this is a version of the Latin Historia.

The VIIth and last volume of Boisteau and Belleforest's Histoires Tragiques—which came out in 1682—has 'Apollonie Roy de Tyriens : ses malheurs sur mer, ses pertes de femme, & fille, & la fin heureuse de tous ensemble' for its 3rd chapter; 'ayant et main,' says Belleforest in his Sommaire de l'Histoire, 'vne histoire tiree du grec & icelle ancienne, comme aussi ie l'ay recueillie d'une vieux liure écrit à la main.¹ He paraphrased at considerable length an original which very likely was much the same as Twine's. George Wilkins's 'Painfull Aduentures of Pericles prince of Tyre,' which appeared in 1608, and has been already mentioned, ends the list of this family of versions.

More removed than these from the Historia Apollonii, but yet based on some form of that legend, is the French romance of Jourdain de Blaivies, who in his flight after killing Lohier, Charlemagne's son, falls into the hands of pirates, escapes, and is afterwards cast up by a storm on the shore of King Marcus's land, where he is befriended by a fisherman, beloved by the king and his daughter Oriabel, defeats the Saracens, and obtains the princess in marriage, who bears him a daughter Gaudisce. Oriabel, put in a cask and cast overboard at sea to appease the tempest, is washt up at Palermo, where she dwells as a recluse. Meanwhile Gaudisce, left in the keeping of Josseline, in the country of Orimonde, while her father voyages in search of his wife, incurs the jealousy of the queen, by whose orders she is secretly conveyed to Constantinople, where, for refusing the love of the emperor's son, she is about to be exposed in a brothel when she is found by her father and mother. This story, often associated with the tale of the two friends Amis and Amiloun, was with that ultimately inserted in the Charlemagne cycle, Jourdain's father becoming the son of Amis.² A variation in the Romance of the VII Sages of the story of the two friends, names them Loys and Alexander. Upon some form of this Alexander story was doubtless founded Theodoor Rodenburgh's Dutch tragic-comedy (in 44 uuren or scenes) of Alexander, publisht at Amsterdam in 1618. W. C. Hazlitt suggested, what is not improbable, that this was in some degree like the lost play of Alexander and Lodwick, one of 5 'Books' for which Henslow paid Martin

Slaughter £8 in May, 1598 ; but the supposition that Slaughter's play was made use of by the authors of Pericles is probably erroneous.

Another offshoot of the Apollonius saga is found in the Spanish Historia del rey Canamor y del infante Turian su hijo, publisht at Seville in 1558.

Besides the plays already named, there are the following dramatic versions of the story. (1) Pieter Bor's two Dutch tragicomedies, 'Apollonius Prince van Tyro,' and 'Apollonius en zijne dochter Tarsia,' publisht at the Hague, 1617, and based on the story as given in the Dutch version of the Gesta Romanorum. (2) 'Appolonius, Koningh van Tyrus,' 'tragedy' by D. Lingelbach publisht at Amsterdam, 1662.¹

Lillo's Marina, presented at Covent Garden, August 1st, 1738, is an adaptation of portions of the latter part of Pericles.

§ 3. Two printed English versions were ready to hand for any one who wished to dramatize the story of Apollonius ; (1) in Gower, bk. viii. of Confessio Amantis ls. 281-2018, (2) Laurence Twine's Patterne of painefull Aduentures : the play of Pericles was based on the former.² This appears in several ways : (a) in the names of the characters, where, except when characters have been re-named, Gower's form of a name is taken wherever he differs from Twine. Thus Hellicanus, Thaliard (Thaliart in Wilkins's Novel), Dionisa, Lichorida, Philoten, and the place Meteline too, are Gower's names, while Twine, whose Latin version was seemingly rather a bad one, writes Elinatus, Taliarchus, Dionisiades, Ligozides, Philomacia, and Machilenta. Further ; the name Thaisa is not found in Twine, who calls Apollonius's daughter Tarsia, and her mother Lucina, whereas Gower (who gives the mother no name) calls the daughter Thaisë ; and the name Leoninus, given by Gower to the Pandar, is not known to Twine.

¹ See Dr. G. Penon's Bijdragen tot de gesch. der Nederl. Letterkunde, Groningen, 1880, I., 113 and follg.

² Both are printed in Hazlitt's Shakespeare's Library, Pt. I., Vol. IV.

x. § 3. GOWER, NOT TWINE, IS THE SOURCE OF THE PLAY.

(b) Incidents and expressions in the play are taken from Gower's Story and not from Twine's.

(i.) III. i. Pericles alone on the deck is shown the new-born child. In Twine there is no mention of his being apart from his wife; Gower says of the 'yonge lady'—

Of childe she began travail
Wher she lay in a caban clos.
Her woful lord from her aros
* * * *

A maide child was bore tho.
Appollinus, when this he knewe,
For sorwe a swoone he ouerthrewe. . . .

(ii.) When the sailors proposed to throw the body overboard, Apollonius, according to Twine, protested strongly; in Gower he assents mournfully; and in the play his words are 'As you think meet.—Most wretched queene.'

(iii.) Pericles III., 33-37.
Gower's chorus.

the summe of this,

And every one with claps can sound
'Our heyre apparant is a King. . .'

Conf: Amant: 1021 follg.
This tale, after the king it

Pentapolim al ouerspradde;
Ther was no ioie for to seche,
For euery man had it in speche
'A worthy king shal ben oure

There is nothing of this in Twine.

(iv.) Pericl: III. ii., 68-75.
Heere I giue to vnderstande,

. . . .
I King Pericles haue lost
This queene, worth all our mundaine cost:
Who finds her, giue her burying;
She was the Daughter of a
King:
Besides this Treasure for a fee

Conf: Am: 1132-40.

And who that hapneth her to finde,

And do so that she be begraue
With this tresor which he shal haue.

Twine says—'Whoseuer shal find this chest, I pray him to take ten pieces of gold for his paines, and to bestow tenne pieces more vpon the buriall of the corpes . . . Whosoeuer shall doe otherwise than the present grieve requireth, let him die a shameful death. . ."

(v.) In Twine's story—which follows the Latin—it was Cerimon's towardly scholler Machaon who, while anointing the body [of Lucina] for burial, perceived some warmth in her breast, and that there was life in the body. In Gower's version and the play alike the restoring to life is all Cerimon's doing.

(vi.) According to Twine, 'faire Lucina . . . being perfectly come to herself, "what art thou?" said she vnto Machaon: "see thou touch me not otherwise than thou oughtest to do, for I am a king's daughter, and the wife of a king."'

Pericl: III. ii., 105-6.

Conf: Am: 1216-7.

[Shee moues.] O deare Diana, Where am I? Where's my Lord? What world is this?	She spake and saide: 'Where am I? Where is my lord? what world is this?'
---	---

(vii.) V. i., 35, etc. Pericles will not answer when Lysimachus addresses him, and, later, when Marina comes. So Gower in both instances. In Twine, the governor is answered in a set speech, and there is a long episode telling how Apollonius solved various riddles which 'the maiden Tharsia' asked him.

When Pericles at last speaks, he asks Marina a multitude of questions. Gower's version—interesting as illustrating the two places 82-89, etc., 127-129—is thus:

As a mad man, ate laste
His heued wepinge away he caste,
And halfe in wrathe he bad here go.
But yet she wolde nought do so,
And in the derke forth she goth
Til she him toucheth, and he wroth,
And after here with his hond
He smote. And thus whan she him fonde
Disesed, courteisly she saide
'Avoy, my lorde, I am a maide—
And if ye wiste what I am,
And out of what lignage I cam,
Ye wolde nought be so saluage.'

With that he sobreth his corage
And put away his heuy chere.

* * * * *

This king vnto this maide opposeth
And axeth first, what is her hame,
And where she lerned all this game,
And of what ken that she was come.

But in Twine, Tarsia had told her story in a single speech immediately after Apollonius thrust her away from him ; so that Apollonius alone has any further speech to make.

These and other points of likeness lead to the conclusion that the basis of the play was the story as given in Gower,—who certainly tells his tale more dramatically than Twine does. This explains why, in the play, Gower is brought on as the presenter. But there are a few parallels with Twine's story ; Cleon's sentiments, for example, in Act IV., sc. iii., are pretty much those which in Twine are put into the mouth of 'Stranguillio,' as the character is there named ; and though here l. 16, 'She dide at night. Ile say so,' is from Gower, the scene is founded on Twine's story.

Steevens pointed out that there are in the first two acts several imitations of ideas in the Arcadia, viz., I. i. 10, 11 ; 62, 63 ; II. i., 63-65 ; the word 'bases,' l. 167 ; ii. 54, 55, and last words of scene. The passages in the Arcadia will be found in the Variorum edition at these references. Stevens's further supposition that the name of Sidney's hero 'Pyrocles' was the original of our 'Pericles' seems very likely ; and we know that suggestions from the Arcadia had probably been made use of by Shakspeare in The Two Gentlemen—for the scene of Valentine and the robbers, IV. i., and the praise of solitude V. iv.—and in King Lear for the Gloucester story, taken from Sidney's tale of the blind king of Paphlagonia.

§ 4. Both the editions of Pericles which appeared in 1609 are reproduced in the present series, as there has been some doubt which of the two was the earlier. In the Introduction to the other Quarto, I have sought to show why, with the Cambridge editors, I give the priority to this edition.

§ 5. The history of the play up to the time when it reached the state we now see it in may be here conjecturally summed up. Shakspeare began a play on the story of Marina, but only wrote the beginning and end, which is now left to us in the last three Acts of Pericles. The unfinished work was then handed over to George Wilkins and William Rowley—elsewhere also fellow-workers—to be completed for the stage. Wilkins made two new Acts from incidents in the tale of Apollonius, eked out with a Pageant of his own composing, and made this serve as a new beginning for the play. Rowley wrote scenes ii., iv. and v. of Act V. (They are too pointless and inconsequent to have come from Shakspeare, though possibly he left some suggestion for them.) The Gower-choruses were inserted in suitable places by Wilkins; Rowley perhaps helping in one or two places. But the work as thus completed has perished. Heminge and Condell did not see fit to include Pericles in the Folio. Acting rights, perhaps, or the claims of publishers, may have been the reason for their action; or was it that Shakspeare would own no share of his in the patchwork, and the work, not having undergone his revision, was accordingly excluded?

At any rate, what is left to us is a version of the acted play hastily botched up from a brachygraphist's notes, and shewing traces, too, in more than one place of the 'cuts' made in preparing the play for performance.

§ 6. I have markt with a double dagger, in the margin, a number of places in this facsimile where more obvious faults in the text occur. A comparison with the other Quarto of 1609, the facsimile of which is similarly markt, will shew various points of difference between the two editions. The copy in the British Museum Library, from which this facsimile has been made, has been cut down and inlaid. By this means some headlines and initial letters have been lost, wholly or in part. These, in places where there could be no doubt of their identity, are restored in the facsimile by hand.

Further, an awkwardly-mended rent in leaf C had almost obliterated part of the lines I. iv., 107, 108, and II., chorus, 24, which have had to be completed by hand. A small tear has injured lines II. i., 20 and 59. The title page, too, has a tear across the words 'whole' and 'fortunes,' and some letters in 'adventures' and 'The no lesse' are worn and indistinct.

O sing a Song that old was sung,
From ashes, auncient Gower is come,
Assuming mans infirmities,
To glad your eare, and please your eyes :
It hath been sung at Feastivals,
On Ember eues, and Holydayes :

And Lords and Ladyes in their liues,
Haue red it for restoratiues :
The purchase is to make men glorious,

Enter Antiochus, Prince Pericles, and followers.

Anti. Young Prince of Tyre, you haue at large receiued
The danger of the taske you vndertake.

4

Peri. I haue (Antiochus) and with a soule emboldned
With the glory of her prayse, thinke death no hazard,
In this enterprise.

Ant. Musicke bring in our daughter, clothed like a bride,
For embracements euen or loue himselfe;
At whose conception, till Lucina rained,
Nature this dowry gaue; to glad her presence,
The Seanate house of Planets all did sit,
To knit in her, their best perfections.

12

Enter Antiochus daughter.

Per. See where she comes, appareled like the Spring,
Graces her subiects, and her thoughts the King,
Of euery Vertue giues renowne to men:
Her face the booke of prayses, where is read,
Nothing but curious pleasures, as from thence,
Sorrow were euer raete, and teastie wrath
Could neuer be her milde companion.

16

You

Pericles Prince of Tyre.

You Gods that made me man, and sway in loue;
 That haue enflamde desire in my breast,
 To taste the fruite of yon celestiall tree,
 (Or die in thi'aduenture) be my helpes,
 As I am sonne and seruant to your will,
 To compasse such a bondlesse happinesse.

Anti. Prince Pericles.

Peri. That would be sonne to great Antiochus.

Ant. Before thee standes this faire Hesperides,
 With golden fruite, but dangerous to be toucht :
 For Death like Dragons heere affright thee hard :
 Her face like Heauen, inticeth thee to view
 Her countlesse glory ; which desert must gaine :
 And which without desert, because thine eye
 Presumes to reach, all the whole heape must die :
 Yon sometimes famous Princes, like thy selfe,
 Drawne by report, aduentrous by desire,
 Tell thee with speechlesse tongues, and semblance pale,
 That without couering, saue yon field of Starres,
 Heere they stand Martyrs flame in Cupids Warres :
 And with dead cheekes, aduise thee to desist,
 For going on deaths net, whom none resist.

Per. Antiochus, I thanke thee, who hath taught,
 My frayle mortalitie to know it selfe;
 And by those fearefull obiectes, to prepare
 This body, like to them, to what I must :
 For Death remembered should be like a myrrour,
 Who tels vs, life's but breath, to trust it error :
 Ile make my Will then, and as sickemen doe,
 Who know the World, see Heauen, but feeling woe,
 Gripe not at earthly ioyes as earst they did ;
 So I bequeath a happy peace to you,
 And all good men, as euery Prince should doe;
 My ritches to the earth, from whence they came;
 But my vnspotted fire of Loue, to you :
 Thus ready for the way of life or death,
 I wayte the sharpest blow (Antiochus)

The Play of

Scorning aduice; read the conclusion then:
Which read and not expounded, tis decreed,
As these before thee, thou thy selfe shalt bleed.

Daugh. Of all sayd yet, mayst thou prooue prosperous,
Of all sayd yet, I wish thee happinesse.

Peri. Like a bold Champion I assume the Listes,
Nor aske aduise of any other thought,
But faythfulnesse and courage.

The Riddle.

*I am no Viper, yet I feed
On mothers flesh which did me breed:
I sought a Husband, in which labour,
I found that kindnesse in a Father;
Hee's Father, Sonne, and Husband milde:
I, Mother, Wife; and yet his child:
How they may be, and yet in two,
As you will liue resoluue it you.*

Sharpe Phisicke is the last: But ô you powers!
That giues heauen countlesse eyes to view mens actes,
Why cloude they not their sights perpetually,
If this be true, which makes me pale to read it?
Faire Glasse of light, I lou'd you, and could still,
Were not this glorious Casket stor'd with ill:
But I must tell you, now my thoughts reuolt,
For hee's no man on whom perfections waite,
That knowing sinne within, will touch the gate.
You are a faire Violl, and your sense, the stringes;
Who finger'd to make man his lawfull musicke,
Would draw Heauen downe, and all the Gods to harken:
But being playd vpon before your time,
Hell onely daunceth at so harsh a chime:
Good sooth, I care not for you.

Ant. Prince Pericles, touch not, vpon thy life;
For that's an Article within our Law,
As dangerous as the rest: your time's expir'd,
Either expound now, or receiue your sentence.

Peri.

*Pericles Prince of Tyre.*Li.

Peri. Great King,
 Few loue to heare the sinnes they loue to act,
 T'would brayde your selfe too neare for me to tell it:
 Who has a booke of all that Monarches doe,
 Hee's more secure to keepe it shut, then showne.
 For Vice repeated, is like the wandring Wind,
 Blowes dust in others eyes to spread it selfe;
 And yet the end of all is bought thus deare,
 The breath is gone, and the fore eyes see cleare:
 To stop the Ayre would hurt them, the blind Mole castes
 Copt hilles towards heauen, to tell the earth is throng'd
 By mans oppression, and the poore Worme doth die for't:
 Kinges are earths Gods; in vice, their law's their will:
 And if loue stray, who dares say, loue doth ill:
 It is enough you know, and it is fit;
 What being more knowne, growes worse, to smother it.
 All loue the Wombe that their first beeing bred,
 Then giue my tongue like leaue, to loue my head. (ning:

 But I will gloze with him. Young Prince of Tyre,
 Though by the tenour of your strict edict,
 Your exposition misinterpreting,
 We might proceed to counsell of your dayes;
 Yet hope, succeeding from so faire a tree
 As your faire selfe, doth tune vs otherwise;
 Fourtie dayes longer we doe respite you,
 If by which time, our secret be vndone,
 This mercy shewes, wee'le ioy in such a Sonne:
 And vntill then, your entertaines shall bee
 As doth besit our honour and your worth.

Manet Pericles solus.

Peri. How courtesie would seeme to couer sinne,
 When what is done, is like an hipocrite,
 The which is good in nothing but in sight.
 If it be true that I interpret false,
 Then were it certaine you were not so bad,
 As with foule Incest to abuse your soule:

Hell. Royall Antiochus on what cause I knowe not, tooke some displeasure at him, at least hee iudg'de so : and doubting lest hee had err'de or sinn'de, to shewe his sorrow, hee'de correct himselfe ; so puts himselfe vnto the Shipmans toyle, with whome eache minute threatens life or death.

But like to Groues, being topt, they higher rise.

Their creatures want, they may awake
Their helpers, to comfort them.

 That he should neuer haue left,
 Till he cast Belles, Steeple, Church and Parish vp againe:
 But if the good King Simonides were of my minde.

Per. Simonides?

3. We would purge the land of these Drones,
 That robbe the Bee of her Hony.

Per. How from the fenny subiect of the Sea,
 These Fishers tell the infirmities of men,
 And from their watry empire recollect,
 All that may men approue, or men detect.

Peace be at your labour, honest Fisher-men.

2. Honest good fellow what's that, if it be a day fits you
 Search out of the Kalender, and no body looke after ^{it}

Peri. May see the Sea hath cast vpon your coast.

2. What a drunken Knaue was the Sea,
 To cast thee in our way?

Per. A man whom both the Waters and the Winde,
 In that vast Tennis-court, hath made the Ball
 For them to play vpon, intreates you pittie him:
 Hee askes of you, that neuer vs'd to begge.

1. No friend, cannot you begge?
 Heer's them in our countrey of Greece,
 Gets more with begging, then we can doe with working.

2. Canst thou catch any Fishes then?

Peri. I neuer practizde it.

2. Nay then thou wilt starue sure: for heer's nothing to be got now-adayes, vnlesse thou canst fish for't.

Per. What I haue been, I haue forgot to know;
 But what I am, want teaches me to thinke on:
 A man throng'd vp with cold, my Veines are chill,
 And haue no more of life then may suffice,
 To giue my tongue that heat to aske your helpe:
 Which if you shall refuse, when I am dead,
 For that I am a man, pray you see me buried.

1. Die

*Pericles Prince of Tyre.*II.

1. Die, ke-tha ; now Gods forbid't, and I haue a Gowne heere, come put it on, keepe thee warme : now afore mee a handsome fellow : Come, thou shalt goe home, and wee'le haue Flesh for all day, Fish for fasting-dayes and more ; or Puddinges and Flap-iackes, and thou shalt be welcome.

Per. I thanke you sir.

2. Harke you my friend : You sayd you could not beg?

Per. I did but craue.

2. But craue?

Then Ile turne Crauer too, and so I shall scape whipping.

Per. Why, are you Beggars whipt then?

2. Oh not all, my friend, not all : for if all your Beggars were whipt, I would wish no better office, then to be Beadle:
But Maister, Ile goe draw vp the Net.

Per. How well this honest mirth becomes their labour?

1. Harke you sir ; doe you know vvhere yee are?

Per. Not well.

1. Why Ile tell you, this I cald Pantapoles,
And our King, the good Symonides.

Per. The good Symonides, doe you call him?

1. I sir, and he deserues so to be cal'd,
For his peaceable raigne, and good gouernement.

Per. He is a happy King, since he gaines from His subiects the name of good, by his gouernment.
How farre is his Court distant from this shore?

1. Mary sir, halfe a dayes iourney : And Ile tell you,
He hath a faire Daughter, and to morrow is her birth-day,
And there are Princes and Knights come from all partes of the World, to Iust and Turney for her loue.

Per. Were my fortunes equall to my desires,
I could wish to make one there.

1. O sir, things must be as they may : and what a man can not get, he may lawfully deale for his Wiues soule.

Enter the two Fisher-men, drawing vp a Net.

2. Helpe Maister helpe; heere's a Fish hanges in the Net,
Like a poore mans right in the law : t'will hardly come out.
Ha bots on't, tis come at last ; & tis turnd to a rusty Armour.

 128 Thankes Fortune, yet that after all crosse,
 Thou giuest me somewhat to repaire my selfe :
 And though it was mine owne part of my heritage,
 Which my dead Father did bequeath to me,
 With this strict charge euen as he left his life,
 132 Keepe it my Perycles, it hath been a Shield
 Twixt me and death, and poynted to this brayse,
 For that it saued me, keepe it in like necessitie :

 I thanke thee for't, my shipwracke now's no ill,

1. What meane you sir?

Peri. To begge of you (kind friends) this Coate of worth,
 For it was sometime Target to a King ;
 144 I know it by this marke : he loued me dearely,
 And for his sake, I wish the hauing of it,
 And that you'd guide me to your Soueraignes Court,
 Where with it, I may appeare a Gentleman :
 148 And if that euer my low fortune's better,
 149 Ile pay your bounties ; till then, rest your debter.

1. Why wilt thou turney for the Lady?

Peri. Ile shew the vertue I haue borne in Armes.

1. Why do't take it : and the Gods giue thee good an't.

2. I but harke you my friend, t'was wee that made vp this Garment through the rough seames of the Waters :
 156 there are certaine Condolements, certaine Vailes : I hope

Enter Simonydes, with attendaunce, and Thaisa.

King. Are the Knights ready to begin the Tryumph?

1. Lord. They are my Leidge, and stay your comming,
 To present themselves.

King. Returne them, We are ready, & our daughter heere,
 In honour of whose Birth, these Triumphs are,
 Sits heere like Beauties child, whom Nature gat,
 For men to see; and seeing, woonder at.

4

Thai. It pleaseeth you (my royall Father) to expresse
 My Commendations great, whose merit's lesse.

King. It's fit it should be so, for Princes are
 A modell which Heauen makes like to it selfe:
 As Iewels loose their glory, if neglected,
 So Princes their Renownes, if not respected:
 T'is now your honour (Daughter) to entertaine
 The labour of each Knight, in his deuice.

The first Knight passes by.

King. Who is the first, that doth preferre himselfe?

 And the deuice he beares vpon his Shield,
 Is a blacke Ethyope reaching at the Sunne:

*Pericles Prince of Tyre.*II.iii.Enter the King and Knights from Tiling.

King. Knights, to say you're welcome, were superfluous.
 I place vpon the volume of your deedes,
 As in a Title page, your worth in armes,
 Were more then you expect, or more then's fit,
 Since euery worth in shew commends it selfe :
 Prepare for mirth, for mirth becomes a Feast.
 You are Princes, and my guesstes.

Thai. But you my Knight and guest,
 To whom this Wreath of victorie I giue,
 And crowne you King of this dayes happinesse.

Peri. Tis more by Fortune (Lady) then my Merit.

King. Call it by what you will, the day is your,
 And here (I hope) is none that enuies it :
 In framing an Artist, art hath thus decreed,
 To make some good, but others to exceed,
 And you are her labourd scholler : come Queene a th'feast,
 For (Daughter) so you are ; heere take your place :
 Martiall the rest, as they deserue their grace.

Knights. We are honour'd much by good Symonides.

King. Your presence glads our dayes, honour we loue,
 For who hates honour, hates the Gods aboue.

Marshal. Sir, yonder is your place.

Peri. Some other is more fit.

1. Knight. Contend not sir, for we are Gentlemen,
 Haue neither in our hearts, nor outward eyes,
 Enuies the great, nor shall the low despise.

Peri. You are right courtious Knights.

King. Sit sir, sit.

 Then other Knights haue done, ha's broken a Staffe,

Peri. You Kings to mee, like to my fathers picture,
Which tels in that glory once he was,
Had Princes sit like Starres about his Throane,
And hee the Sunne for them to reuerence;
None that beheld him, but like lesser lights,
Did vaile their Crownes to his supremacie;
Where now his sonne like a Gloworme in the night,
The which hath Fire in darknesse, none in light:
Whereby I see that Time's the King of men,
Hee's both their Parent, and he is their Graue,
And giues them what he will, not what they craue.

King. What, are you merry, Knights?

Knights. Who can be other, in this royall presence.

As do you loue, fill to your Mistris lippes,
Wee drinke this health to you.

Knights. We thanke your Grace.

Peri. A Gentleman of Tyre, my name Pericles,
My education beene in Artes and Armes :
Who looking for aduentures in the world,
Was by the rough Seas rest of Ships and men,
and after shipwracke, driuen vpon this shore.

To forbear the absence of your King ;
If in which time expir'd, he not returne,
I shall with aged patience beare your yoake :
But if I cannot winne you to this loue,
Goe search like nobles, like noble subiects,
And in your search, spend your aduenturous worth,

 Wilt thou speat all thy selfe? the sea-mans Whistle
 Is as a whisper in the eares of death,
 Vnheard Lychorida? Lucina, oh !
 Diuineſt patrionesse, and my wife gentle
 To those that cry by night, conuey thy deitie
 Aboard our dauncing Boat, make swift the pangues
 Of my Queenes trauayles ? now Lychorida.

Pericles Prince of Tyre.Enter Lychorida.

Lychor. Heere is a thing too young for such a place,
Who if it had conceit, would die, as I am like to doe:
Take in your armes this peece of your dead Queene.

Per. How? how Lychorida?

Lycho. Patience (good sir) do not asist the storme,
Heer's all that is left liuing of your Queene;
A litle Daughter: for the sake of it,
Be manly, and take comfort.

Per. O you Gods!

Why do you make vs loue your goodly gyfts,
And snatch them straight away? we heere below,
Recall not what we giue, and therein may
Vse honour with you.

Lycho. Patience (good sir) euen for this charge.

Per. Now mylde may be thy life,
For a more blusterous birth had neuer Babe:
Quiet and gentle thy conditions; for
Thou art the rudelyest welcome to this world,
That euer was Princes Child: happy what followes,
Thou hast as chiding a natiuitie,
As Fire, Ayre, Water, Earth, and Heauen can make,
To harould thee from the wombe:
Euen at the first, thy losse is more then can
Thy portage quit, with all thou canst find heere:
Now the good Gods throw their best eyes vpon't.

Enter two Saylers.

1. Sayl. What courage sir? God saue you.

Per. Courage enough, I do not feare the flaw,
It hath done to me the worst: yet for the loue
Of this poore Infant, this fresh new sea-farer,
I would it would be quiet.

1. Sayl. Slacke the bolins there; thou wilt not wilt thou?
Blow and split thy selfe.

Caulkt and bittumed ready.

Peri. I thanke thee: Mariner say, what Coast is this?

2. Wee are neere Tharsus.

Peri. Thither gentle Mariner,
Alter thy course for Tyre: When canst thou reach it?

2. By breake of day, if the Wind cease.

Peri. O make for Tharsus,
There will I visit Cleon, for the Babe
Cannot hold out to Tyrus; there Ile leaue it
At carefull nursing: goe thy wayes good Mariner,
Ile bring the body presently.

 To me and to my ayde, the blest infusions that dwels
 In Vegetiues, in Mettals, Stones : and can speake of the Disturbances that Nature works, and of her cures;
 which doth giue me a more content in course of true delight
 Then to be thirsty after tottering honour, or Tie my pleasure vp in silken Bagges,
 To please the Foole and Death.

 Poured foorth your charitie, and hundreds call themselues,
 Your Creatures; who by you, haue been restored;
 And not your knowledge, your personall payne,
 But euen your Purse still open, hath built Lord Cerimon,
 Such strong renowne, as time shall neuer.

Enter two or three with a Chist.

Seru. So, lift there.

Cer. What's that?

Ser. Sir, euen now did the sea tossc vp vpon our shore
 This Chist; tis of some wracke.

Cer. Set't downe, let's looke vpon't.

2. Gent. T'is like a Coffin, sir.

Cer. What ere it be, t'is woondrous heauie;
 Wrench it open straight :

If the Seas stomacke be orecharg'd with Gold,
 T'is a good constraint of Fortune it belches vpon vs.

Cer. Nay certainly to night, for looke how fresh she looks.
 They were too rough, that threw her in the sea.
 Make a Fire within; fetch hither all my Boxes in my Closet,
 Death may vsurpe on Nature many howers, and yet
 The fire of life kindle againe the ore-prest spirits:
 I heard of an Egipsian that had 9. howers lien dead,
 Who was by good applyaunce recouered.

 Yet glaunce full wondringly on vs. (tally

Di. O your sweet Queene ! that the strict fates had pleas'd, you had brought her hither to haue blest mine eies with her.

Per. We cannot but obey the powers aboue vs;
 Could I rage and rore as doth the sea she lies in,
 Yet the end must be as tis : my gentle babe Marina,
 Whom, for she was borne at sea, I haue named so,
 Here I charge your charitie withall; leauing her
 The infant of your care, beseeching you to giue her

 That fed my Countrie with your Corne; for which,
 The peoples prayers still fall vpon you, must in your child
 Be thought on, if neglectiō should therein make me vile,
 The common body by you relieu'd,
 Would force me to my duety : but if to that,
 My nature neede a spurre, the Gods reuenge it
 Vpon me and mine, to the end of generation.

Per. I belecue you, your honour and your goodnes,
 Teach me too't without your vowes, till she be married,
 Madame by bright Diana, whom we honour,

Pericles Prince of Tyre.

Now to Marina bend your mind,
 Whom our fast growing scene must finde
 At Tharsus, and by Cleon traind
 In Musicks letters, who hath gaind
 Of education all the grace,
 Which makes hie both the art and place
 Of generall wonder: but alacke
 That monster Enuie oft the wracke
 Of earned praise, Marinas life
 Seeke to take off by treasons knife,
 And in this kinde, our Cleon hath
 One daughter and a full growne wench,
 Euen right for marriage sight: this Maid
 Hight Philoten: and it is said
 For certaine in our storie, shee
 Would euer with Marina bee.
 Beet when they weaude the sleded silke,
 With fingers long, small, white as milke,
 Or when she would with sharpe needle wound,
 The Cambricke which she made more sound
 By hurting it or when too'th Lute
 She sung, and made the night bed mute,
 That still records with mone, or when
 She would with rich and constant pen,
 Vaile to her Mistresse Dian still,
 This Phyloten contends in skill
 With absolute Marina: so
 The Doue of Paphos might with the crow
 Vie feathers white, Marina gets
 All prayses, which are paid as debts,
 And not as giuen, this so darkes
 In Phyloten all gracetull markes,
 That Cleons wife with Enuie rare,
 A present murderer does prepare
 For good Marina, that her daughter is a lasting storme, whirring me from my friends.

Dion. How now Marina, why doe yow keep alone?
How chaunce my daughter is not with you?
Doe not consume your bloud with sorrowing,
Haue you a nurse of me? Lord how your fauours
Changd with this vnprofitable woe:
Come giue me your flowers, ere the sea marre it,
Walke with Leonine, the ayre is quicke there,
And it perces and sharpens the stomacke,
Come Leonine take her by the arme, walke with her.

Mari. No I pray you, Ile not bereaue you of your seruāt.

Dion. Come, come, I loue the king your father, and your felfe, with more then forraine heart, wee euery day expect him here, when he shall come and find our Paragon to all reports thus blasted,
He will repent the breadth of his great voyage, blame both my Lord and me, that we haue taken no care to your best courses, go I pray you, walke and be chearfull once againe, reserue that excellent complexion, which did steale the eyes of yong and old. Care not for me, I can goe home alone.

Mari. Well, I will goe, but yet I haue no desire too it.

Dion. Come, come, I know tis good for you, walke halfe an houre Leonine, at the least, remember what I haue sed.

Leon. I warrant you Madam.

Dion. Ile leaue you my sweete Ladie, for a while, pray walke softly, doe not heate your bloud, what, I must haue care of you.

Mari. My thanks sweete Madame, Is this wind Westerlie that blowes?

Leon. Southwest.

Mari. When I was borne the wind was North.

Leon. Was it so?

Mari. My father, as nurse ses, did neuer feare, but cryed good sea-men to the Saylers, galling his kingly hands hal-ling ropes, and clasping to the Mast, endured a sea that almost burst the decke.

Leon. When was this?

Mari. When I was borne, neuer was waues nor winde more violent, and from the ladder tackle, washes off a can-uas clymer, ha ses one, wolt out? and with a dropping in-dustrie they skip from sterne to sterne, the Boatswaine whistles, and the Maister calles and trebles their confusion.

Leon. Come say your prayers,

Mari. What meane you?

Leon. If you require a little space for praier, I graunt it, pray, but bee not tedious, for the Gods are quicke of care,
and I am sworne to do my worke with haste.

Mari. Why will you kill me?

Leon. To satisfie my Ladie.

Mari. Why would shee haue mee kild now? as I can remember by my troth, I neuer did her hurt in all my life, I neuer spake bad worde, nor did ill turne to anie liuing creature: Beleeue me law, I neuer kild a Mouse, nor hurta Fly:
I trode vpon a worme against my will, but I wept fort. How haue I offended, wherein my death might yeeld her anie

Pander. Bault.

Bault. Sir.

Pander. Searche the market narrowly, Mettelyne is full of gallants, wee lost too much much money this mart by beeing too wenchlesse.

Bawd. Wee were neuer so much out of Creatures, we haue but poore three, and they can doe no more then they can doe, and they with continuall action, are euen as good as rotten.

Pander. Therefore lets haue fresh ones what ere wee pay for them, if there bee not a conscience to be vsde in euerie trade, wee shall neuer prosper.

Bawd. Thou sayst true, tis not our bringing vp of poore bastards, as I thinke, I haue brought vp some eleuen.

Bault. I to eleuen, and brought them downe againe, but shall I searche the market?

Bawde. What else man? the stufte we haue, a strong

Pand. Three or foure thousande Checkins were as prettie a proportion to liue quietly, and so giue ouer.

Bawd. Why, to giue ouer I pray you? Is it a shame to get when wee are olde?

Pand. Oh our credite comes not in like the commoditie, nor the commoditie wages not with the daunger: therefore if in our youtnes we could picke vp some prettie estate, t'were not amisse to keepe our doore hatch't, besides the sore tearmes we stand vpon with the gods, wilbe strong with vs for giuing ore.

Bawd. Come other sorts offend as well as wee.

Pand. As well as wee. I, and better too, wee offende worse, neither is our profession any trade, It's no calling, but heere comes Boult.

Enter Boult with the Pirates and Marina.

Boult. Come your wayes my maisters, you say shee's a virgin.

Sayler. O Sir, wee doubt it not.

Boult. Master, I haue gone through for this peece you see, if you like her so, if not I haue lost my earnest.

Bawd. Boult has shee anie qualities?

Boult. Shee has a good face, speakes well, and has excellent good cloathes: theres no farther necessitie of qualities can make her be refus'd Bawd. What's her price Boult?

Boult.

Pericles Prince of Tyre.

56 Boult. I cannot be bated one doit of a thousand peeces.

Pand. Well, follow me my maisters, you shall haue your 60 money presenly, wife take her in, instruct her what she has to doe, that she may not be rave in her entertainment.

Bawd. Boult, take you the markes of her, the colour of her haire, complexion, height, her age, with warrant of her 64 virginitie, and crie, He that wil giue most shal haue her first, such a maydenhead were no cheape thing, if men were as they haue beene: get this done as I command you.

Boult. Performance shall follow. Exit.

haue strooke, not spoke, or that these Pirates, not enough barbarous, had not oreboord throwne me, for to seeke my mother.

72 Bawd. Why lament you prettie one?

Mar. That I am prettie.

Bawd. Come, the Gods haue done their part in you.

76 Mar. I accuse them not.

Bawd. You are light into my hands, where you are like to liue.

80 # Mar. The more my fault, to scape his handes, where I was to die.

Bawd. I, and you shall liue in peasure.

Mar. No.

84 Bawd. Yes indeed shall you, and taste Gentlemen of all fashions, you shall fare well, you shall haue the difference of all complexions, what doe you stop your cares?

Mar. Are you a woman?

88 Bawd. What would you haue mee be, and I bee not a woman?

Mar. An honest woman, or not a woman.

92 Bawd. Marie whip the Gosseling, I thinke I shall haue something to doe with you, come you'r a young foolish sapling, and must be bowed as I would haue you.

Mar. The Gods defend me.

Bawd.

Pericles Prince of Tyre.

Baud. If it please the Gods to defend you by men, then men must comfort you, men must feed you, men stir you vp: Boults returnd. Now sir, hast thou cride her through the Market?

96

Boults. I haue cryde her almost to the number of her haire, I haue drawne her picture with my voice.

100

Baud. And I prethee tell me, how dost thou find the inclination of the people, especially of the yonger sort?

104

Boults. Faith they listened to mee, as they would haue harkened to their fathers testament, there was a Spaniards mouth watred, and he went to bed to her verie description.

108

Baud. We shall haue him here to morrow with his best ruffe on.

Boults. To night, to night, but Mistresse doe you knowe the French knight, that cowres ethe hams?

112

Baud. Who, Monsieur Verollus?

Boults. I, he, he offered to cut a caper at the proclamation, but he made a groane at it, and swore he would see her to morrow.

116

Baud. Well, well, as for him, hee brought his disease hither, here he does but repaire it, I knowe hee will come in our shadow, to scatter his crownes in the Sunne.

120

Boults. Well, if we had of euerie Nation a trauceller, wee should lodge them with this signe.

124

Baud. Pray you come hither a while, you haue Fortunes comming vppon you, marke mee, you must seeme to doe that fearefully, which you commit willingly, despise profite, where you haue most gaine, to weepe that you liue as yee doe, makes pittie in your Louers sel-dome, but that pittie begets you a good opinion, and that opinion a meere profite.

Cleon. Were I chiefe Lord of all this spacious world, I'de giue it to vndo the deede. O Ladie much leife in bloud then vertue, yet a Princes to equall any single Crowne ath earth-ith Iustice of compare, O villaine, Leonine whom thou hast poisoned too, if thou hadst drunke to him tad beene a kindnesse becomming well thy face, what canst thou say when noble Pericles shall demaund his child?

Dion. That shee is dead, Nurses are not the fates to foster it, not euer to preferue, shee dide at night, Ile say so, who can crosse it vnlesse you play the impious Innocent, and for an honest attribute, crie out shee dyde by foule play.

Cle. O goe too, well, well, of all the faults beneath the heauens, the Gods doe like this worst.

Dion. Be one of those that thinkes the pettie wrens of Tharsus will flie hence, and open this to Pericles, I do shame to thinke of what a noble straine you are, and of how coward a spirit.

Cle. To such proceeding who euer but his approbation added, though not his prince consent, he did not flow from honourable courses.

Dion. Be it so then, yet none does knowe but you how shee came dead, nor none can knowe Leonine being gone. Shee did disdain my childe, and stood betweene her and her fortunes: none would looke on her, but cast their gazes on Marianas face, whilest ours was blurted at, and helde a Mawkin not worth the time of day. It pierst me thorow, and though you call my course vn-naturall, you not your childe well louing, yet I finde it greets mee as an enterprize of kindnesse performd to your sole daughter.

Cle. Heauens forgiue it.

Gower. Thus time we waste, & long leagues make short,
Saile seas in Cockles, haue and wish but fort,
Making to take our imagination,
From bourne to bourne, region to region,
By you being pardoned we commit no crime,
To vse one language, in each seuerall clime,
Where our sceanes seemes to liue,
I doe beseech you
To learne of me who stand with gappes
To teach you.

The stages of our storie Pericles

Is now againe thwarting thy wayward seas,
Attended on by many a Lord and Knight,
To see his daughter all his liues delight.

Old Helicanus goes along behind,

Is left to gouerne it, you beare in mind.

Old Escenes, whom Helicanus late

Aduancde in time to great and hie estate.

Well sayling ships, and bounteous winds

Haue brought

This king to Tharsus, thinke this Pilat thought

So with his sterage, shall your thoughts grone

To fetch his daughter home, who first is gone

Like moats and shadowes, see them

Moue a while,

Your cares vnto your eyes Ile reconcile.

IV.iv.

Enter Pericles at one doore, with all his trayne, Cleon and Dioniza at the other. Cleon shewes Pericles the tombe, whereat Pericles makes lamentation, puts on sacke-cloth, and in a mighty passion departs.

Gowr. See how beleefe may suffer by fowie shoue,
This borrowed passion stands for true olde woe :
And Pericles in sorrowe all deuour'd,
With sighes shot through, and biggest teares ore-showr'd,
Leaues Tharsus, and againe imbarques, hee swears
Neuer to wash his face, nor cut his hayres :
Hee put on sack-cloth, and to Sea he beares,
A Tempest which his mortall vessell teares.
And yet hee rydes it out, Nowe please you wit:
The Epitaph is for Marina writ, by wicked Dioniza.

*The fairest, sweetest, and best lyes heere,
Who withered in her spring of yeare :
She was of Tyrus the Kings daughter,
On whom fowle death hath made this slaughter.
Marina was shee call'd, and at her byrth,
Thetis being proud, swallowed some part at herth :
Therefore the earth fearing to be ore-flowed,
Hath Thetis byrth-childe on the heauens bestowed.
Wherefore she does and swears shee le neuer stint,
Make raging Battery upon shores of flint.*

No vizor does become blacke villanie,
So well as soft and tender flatterie :
Let Pericles belecue his daughter's dead,
And beare his courses to be ordered ;
By Lady Fortune, while our Steare must play,
His daughters woe and heauie welladay.
In her vnholie seruice : Patience then,
And thinke you now are all in Mittelin.

Pe. Now blessing on thee, rise th'art my child.
Giue me fresh garments, mine owne Hellicanus, thee is not dead at Tharsus as shee should haue beene by sauage Cleon, she shall tell thee all, when thou shalt kneele, and iustifie in knowledge, she is thy verie Princes, who is this?

I

Hel. Sir

V.i.

Pericles Prince of Tyre.

Hel. Sir, tis the gouernor of Metaline, who hearing of your melancholie state, did come to see you.

Per. I embrace you, giue me my robes.

224 I am wilde in my beholding, O heauens bleffe my girle,

But harke what Musicke tell, Hellicanus my Marina,

† Tell him ore point by point, for yet he seemes to doat.

228 How sure you are my daughter, but what musicke?

Hel My Lord I heare none.

Per. None, the Musicke of the Spheres, list my Marina.

232 Lys. It is not good to crosse him, giue him way.

Per. Rarest sounds, do ye not heare?

Lys. Musicke my Lord? I heare.

Per. Most heauenly Musicke.

It nips me vnto listning, and thicke slumber

236 Hangs vpon mine eyes, let me rest.

Lys. A Pillow for his head, so leaue him all.

240 Well my companion friends, if this but answere to my iust beliefe, Ile well remember you.

Diana.

Dia. My Temple stands in Ephesus,

Hie thee thither, and doe vppon mine Altar sacrifice,

There when my maiden priests are met together before the 244 † people all, reueale how thou at sea didst loose thy wife, to

† mourne thy crosses with thy daughters, call, & giue them repetition to the like, or performe my bidding, or thou li-

248 uest in woe: doo't, and happie, by my siluer bow, awake and tell thy dreame.

Per. Celestiall Dian, Goddesse Argentine,

252 I will obey thee Hellicanus. Hell. Sir.

Per. My purpose was for Tharsus, there to strike,

The inhospitable Cleon, but I am for other seruice first,

Toward Ephesus turne our blowne sayles,

256 Eftsoones Ile tell thee why, shall we refresh vs sir vpon your shore, and giue you golde for such prouision as our intents will neede.

Lys. Sir,

Pericles Prince of Tyre.

Lys. Sir, with all my heart, and when you come a shore,
I haue another sleight.

Per. You shall preuaile were it to wooe my daughter, for it seemes you haue beene noble towards her.

Lys. Sir, lend me your arme.

Per. Come my Marina.

Exeunt.

Gower. Now our sands are almost run,
More a little, and then dum.
This my last boone giue mee,
For such kindnesse must relieue mee:
That you aptly will suppose,
What pageantry, what feats, what shewes,
What minstrellie, and prettie din,
The Regent made in Metalin.
To greet the King, so he thriued,
That he is promise to be wiued
To faire Marina, but in no wise,
Till he had done his sacrifice.
As Dian bad whereto being bound,
The Interim pray, you all confound.
In fetherd briefenes sayles are fild,
And wishes fall out as they 'r wild,
At Ephesus the Temple see,
Our King and all his companie.
That he can hither come so soone,
Is by your fancies thankfull doome.

Per. Haile Dian, to performe thy iust commaund,
I here confesse my selfe the King of Tyre,
Who frighted from my countrey did wed at Pentapolis, the faire Thaisa, at Sea in childbed died she, but brought forth a Mayd child calld Marina, whom O Goddesse wears yet thy siluer lucrey, shee at Tharsus was nurst with Cleon, who at fourteene yeares he sought to murder, but her better stars

brought her to Meteline, gainst whose shore ryding, her Fortunes brought the mayde aboard vs, where by her owne most cleere remembrance, shee made knowne her selfe my Daughter.

Th. Voyce and fauour, you are, you are, O royall Pericles.

Per. What meanes the mum? shee die's, helpe Gentlemen.

Cer. Noble Sir, if you haue tolde Dianaes Altar true, this is your wife?

Per. Reuerent appearer no, I threwe her ouer-boord with these verie armes.

Cc. Vpon this coast, I warrant you.

Pe. T'is most certaine.

Cer. Looke to the Ladie, O shee's but ouer-joyde, Earlie in blustering morne this Ladie was throwne vpon
this shore.

I op't the coffin, found there rich Iewells, recouered her, and plac'te her heere in Dianaes temple.

Per. May we see them?

Cer. Great Sir, they shalbe brought you to my house, whither I inuite you, looke Thaisa is recouered.

Th. O let me looke if hee be none of mine, my fanctitie will to my sense bende no licentious eare, but curbe it spight of seeing: O my Lord are you not Pericles? like him you spake, like him you are, did you not name a tempest, a birth, and death?

Per. The voyce of dead Thaisa.

Th. That Thaisa am I, supposed dead and drownd.

Per. I mortall Dian.

Th. Now I knowe you better, when wee with teares parted Pentapolis, the king my father gaue you such a ring.

Per. This, this, no more, you gods, your present kinde-nes makes my past miseries sports, you shall doe well that on the touching of her lips I may melt, and no more be seere,

Pericles Prince of Tyre.

scene, O come, be buried a second time within these armes.

Mo. My heart leaps to be gone into my mothers bosome.

Per. Looke who kneeles here, flesh of thy flesh Thaisa, thy burden at the Sea, and call'd Marina, for she was yeelded there.

Th. Blest, and mine owne.

Hell. Hayle Madame, and my Queene.

Th. I knowe you not.

Hell. You haue heard mee say when I did flie from Tyre, I left behind an ancient substitute, can you remember what I call'd the man, I haue nam'de him oft.

Th. T'was Hellicanus then.

Per. Still confirmation, imbrace him deere Thaisa, this is hee, now doe I long to heare how you were found? how possiblie preserued? and who to thanke (besides the gods) for this great miracle?

Th. Lord Cerimon, my Lord, this man through whom the Gods haue showne their power, that can from first to last resolue you.

Per. Reuerent Syr, the gods can haue no mortall officer more like a god then you, will you deliuer how this dead Queene reliues?

Cer. I will my Lord, beseech you first, goe with mee to my house, where shall be showne you all was found with her. How shee came plac'de heere in the Temple, no needfull thing omitted.

Per. Pure Dian bleesse thee for thy vision, and will offer night oblations to thee Thaisa, this Prince, the faire betrothed of your daughter, shall marrie her at Pentapolis, and now this ornament makes mee looke dismall, will I clip to forme, and what this fourteene yeeres no razer touch't, to grace thy marridge-day, Ile beautifie.

Th. Lord Cerimon hath letters of good credit. Sir, my father's dead.

 82 Queene, wee'le celebrate their Nuptialls, and our selues will in that kingdome spend our following daies, our sonne and daughter shall in Tyrus raigne.

84 Lord Cerimon wee doe our longing stay,
 To heare the rest vntolde, Sir lead's the way.

Gower.

2 In Antiochus and his daughter you haue heard
 Of monstrous lust, the due and iust reward:
 4 In Pericles his Queene and Daughter scene,
 Although assayl'de with Fortune fierce and keene.
 Vertue preferd from fell destructions blast,
 6 Lead on by heauen, and crown'd with ioy at last.
 In Helycanus may you well descrie,
 8 A figure of trueth, of faith, of loyaltie:
 In reuerend Cerimon there well appeares,
 10 The worth that learned charitie aye weares.
 For wicked Cleon and his wife, when Fame
 12 Had spred his cursed deede, the honor'd name
 Of Pericles, to rage the Cittie turne,
 14 That him and his they in his Pallace burne:
 The gods for murder seemde so content,
 16 To punish, although not done, but meant.
 So on your Patience euermore attending,
 48 20 New ioy wayte on you, heere our play has ending.
